

Press Release for Employee Certification Achievement 2008-2009

The American Society for Quality (ASQ) is providing this news release for the announcement of your recent success in becoming ASQ certified. Please make sure all of your information is correct and provide the release to your employer for distribution to local newspapers, your professional affiliations and associations, and any other outlet that would be interested. In addition, your employer may want to post this announcement on your company's Web site or Intranet site. The following information may be useful to you in discussing the news release distribution with your organization's leaders:

Why should your company distribute a press release to announce an ASQ certification achievement?

When employees complete the rigorous studying and preparation process to achieve an ASQ certification, they appreciate recognition for their efforts from their company leadership and colleagues. This release can also provide greater awareness for your organization's commitment to quality, and its dedication to employee training and education.

To distribute a press release to local media, visit the publication's Web site to find submission guidelines in the "contact us" section of the site. If you have any questions regarding this press release, please e-mail Lynda Nicely at lnicely@asq.org. For all other certification questions or if you would like more information about ASQ, please contact ASQ Customer Care at 800-248-1946.

Contact: Lynda Nicely
800-248-1946, x 7587
lnicely@asq.org

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Daniel C. Castle Receives ASQ-Certified Pharmaceutical GMP Professional

Milwaukee, WI, July 5, 2009 — The Certification Board of the American Society for Quality is pleased to announce that Daniel C. Castle has completed the requirements to be named an ASQ-Certified Pharmaceutical GMP Professional. As such, Daniel C. Castle has reached a significant level of professional recognition, indicating a proficiency in and a comprehension of good manufacturing practices (GMPs) as regulated and guided by national and international agencies for the pharmaceutical industry. Individuals who earn this certification are allowed to use “ASQ CPGP” on their business cards and professional correspondence.

“ASQ provides certification as a way to provide formal recognition to professionals who have demonstrated an understanding of, and a commitment to, quality techniques and practices in their job and career,” explains Roberto Saco, President, American Society for Quality. “This is a great accomplishment and, although not a formal registration or licensure, it represents a high level of peer recognition.”

In order to sit for the Pharmaceutical GMP Professional (CPGP) examination, an individual must have five years of work experience in one or more areas of the CPGP body of knowledge, and three of those years must be in a decision-making position.

Since 1968, when the first ASQ certification examination was given, more than 160,000 individuals have taken the path to reaching their goal of becoming ASQ-Certified in their field or profession, including many of who have attained more than one designation. To learn more about ASQ’s Certified Pharmaceutical GMP Professional (CPGP) program, visit <http://www.asq.org/certification/pharmaceutical-gmp/>.

The American Society for Quality, www.asq.org, has been the world's leading authority on quality for more than 60 years. With more than 90,000 individual and organizational members, the professional association advances learning, quality improvement, and knowledge exchange to improve business results, and to create better workplaces and communities worldwide. As champion of the quality movement, ASQ offers technologies, concepts, tools, and training to quality professionals, quality practitioners, and everyday consumers, encouraging all to Make Good Great®. ASQ has been the sole administrator of the prestigious Malcolm Baldrige National Quality Award since 1991. Headquartered in Milwaukee, Wis., ASQ is a founding partner of the American Customer Satisfaction Index (ACSI), a prominent Quarterly economic indicator, and also produces the Quarterly Quality Report.

**# # #